RED REVOLT PLAN FOR U.S.

Details Bared In Document Read In N.Y. Federal Court Loyalty Pledge To USSR

New York, March 24.

A Communist master plan for general strikes and revolt—according to the rules of military science was unfolded before a federal court jury here yesterday.

The prosecutor of 11 Communist Party leaders read from a Communist document which bristled with such words as "armed insurrection," "revolutionary positions," "putschism," "revolutionary upsurge," and "mobilisation of the masses."

A copy of this Communist programme was identified by Louis F. Budenz, former Communist official who renounced the party and returned to the Roman Catholic Church.

What's Left Of Aid Funds

Washington, March 24.

Mr. Dean Acheson, the U.S. Secretary of State, today expressed the hope that action would be taken by Congress to permit the remaining China aid funds to be spent in China's assistance.

Of the $70,000,000 allocated by the United States for reconstruction in China, between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 remain. Expenditure on this money was suspended following the recent Communist successes in China, and the balance will revert to the Treasury on April 3 unless Congress intervenes.

A bill to extend the period in which these funds may be spent, from April 3 until June 30.

Mr. Acheson, who was speaking at his weekly press conference, expressed the hope that Congress would act favorably upon this bill.

Latest U.S. Blast At Russia

Washington, March 24.

The State Department said today Russia is afraid to let its people get a true idea of American freedoms and living standards.

For that reason, it said in a strongly worded report, Russians are shut off from outside contacts whereby they could draw comparisons with the way things are at home.

"The Soviet Government fears a free interchange of ideas because of a realisation that 30 years of Communism have failed to provide the patient Soviet people with a living standard anywhere approximating that enjoyed by the workers in the United States."

It declared that the Russians have been deprived by the Soviet regime of freedom of thought and action, "which once experienced through contact with American people or American books will make them ill-content with their life in the Soviet Union."

The report bristled with denunciation of Moscow "evasions," "suspensions" and "spy phobia."

It was published on the eve of the opening tomorrow in New York of a "cultural and scientific conference for world peace."

The U.S. granted entry permits to 21 delegates from Russia and Communist-run Eastern European countries.

Explaining that "notable Communist propaganda" were granted entry because of the American policy of free exchange of ideas, the State Department said that "the Soviet Government has never permitted within its borders an international meeting representing a wide range of political views."

The Kremlin, said the report, must keep Russians from outside contacts to "induce its citizens to tolerate the obvious failure of the Soviet system to provide for their needs, and to accept, at least passively, the oppressive aspects of the Soviet state."

"It is also necessary to keep gullible and misguided Soviet sympathisers beyond the USSR's borders ignorant of actual conditions prevailing in the Soviet Union," it added.

Budenz testified that the party had demanded his loyalty to Premier Stalin as the leader of Communist world revolution in all countries, including the United States.

The witness said some of the defendants, being tried on charges of conspiracy to advocate overthrow of the U.S. Government by force and violence, had taken such a loyalty pledge in Moscow. Budenz was the first witness called by the Government in the 10-week-old trial.

The defence got an offer of help yesterday from Earl Browder, deposed leader of the U.S. Communist Party who has been attacked recently by the "Daily Worker", the party's official publication.

Earl Browder

Browder offered himself as a defence witness, saying he made the public announcement to spike rumours that he would be a prosecution witness.

Part of the Communist document identified at the trial by Budenz was read by U.S. attorney John McGohey. The prosecutor previously had told the jury that the 11 defendants held the key to a planned American revolution.

The document—the 1935 Comintern programme—called for "intensified revolutionary work in the Army and Navy."

McGohey read to the jury instructions to Communists in all countries to get control of trade unions, seek influence over "the lower strata of the intelligentsia" and fight the power of the clergy.

The Red programme ridiculed any idea of "peaceful capture of the machinery of state by parliamentary majority." It insisted on the need for violence to overthrow the Government when a "revolutionary situation" developed.

Reform Club Against Municipal Council

A resolution calling for the scrapping of a Municipal Council scheme proposed by the Government was passed at the second public meeting of the Reform Club held at the West Lounge of the Kowloon YMCA yesterday.

About 80 persons attended the meeting, at which Mr. Charles Losby, the Club President, introduced the speakers, Mr. B. A. Bernacchi, Mr. C. A. S. Russ and Mr. Ma Man-fai.

Mr. Losby also announced yesterday that the next meeting would be held on Monday next, March 28, when the Colony's Budget of 1949/50 will be discussed.

The first speaker, Mr. Bernacchi began with a brief review of the Colony's history regarding the formation of the Municipal Council proposed by Whitehall in the latter part of last century.

Mr. Bernacchi submitted that the Colony could not have a Legislative Council and Municipal Council both with effective powers. Either one or the other should be abandoned, he declared.

Mr. C. A. Sulherton Russ, the next speaker, stressed the need for the revitalisation of the Legislature in Hong Kong, and compared the so-called Municipal Council planned by Government to "toffee being offered to children," and proposed that the best place for it should be the dustbin.

Mr. Ma Man-fai, dealt at length with the question of self-government which has been promised but which has so far been denied. Mr. Ma then commented on press editorials on the same subject, and said that the control of public works and certain other Government departments will remain in the hands of the same civil service, which has made the Colony dance to its tune for so long.

Mr. Ma concluded by voicing the need for representation in the Legislative Council, instead of an unborn Municipal Council, which, he stated, is no longer necessary.

JAPANESE PATIENTS UNIONISED

Tokyo, March 24.

The unionisation fever has so swept the country that hospital patients in Kyoto are forming a union to see that they get proper attention from doctors, nurses and hospital management.

This disclosure was made by SCAP labour officials today.

U.S. Keeps An Eye On Formosa

Tokyo, March 23.

Reported Chinese Communist infiltration into Formosa is being watched closely by U.S. military leaders, according to an Associated Press report.

In the hands of an enemy equipped with air power, Formosa could be used to cut vital American shipping lines. It could be a base for heavy assaults on nearby Okinawa, the keystone of advance American bases.

American authorities say Communist influence is negligible at the moment. But they leave no doubt of their interest in assuring that Formosa remains in friendly hands regardless of developments on the Chinese mainland.

The island is perfect for aerial thrusts against the Philippines and Japan. Japan used it as a base for the first assault on the Philippines. And throughout the war Formosa's airfields dealt blows to Allied forces.

Vice-Admiral Oscar C. Badger, Commander United States Naval Forces, West Pacific, was greeted at Queen's Pier yesterday by Commodore C.L. Robertson, accompanied by Commander Webb. ## VICE-ADMIRAL BADGER HERE FOR SHORT VISIT

Vice-Admiral Oscar C. Badger, Commander United States Naval Forces, West Pacific, arrived here yesterday in the Amphibious Force flagship, Eldorado, for a short visit.

The American admiral disembarked at Queen's Pier where he was greeted by Commodore C. L. Robertson, who was accompanied by Commander Webb.

Admiral Badger inspected the Guard of Honour from HMS Tamar, under Lieutenant Hodge, RN, and left the Pier to call on the American Consulate-General.

The Commander-in-Chief, Far East Station, Vice-Admiral Sir E.J. Patrick Brind, was unable to return the call of the distinguished American visitor personally yesterday morning due to a minor leg injury.

The Flag Officer, Second-in-Command, Far East Station, Vice-Admiral A.C.G. Madden, returned Admiral Badger's call on behalf of the Commander-in-Chief.

Admiral Brind was also unable to attend the reception given by the United States Consul General, Mr. G.D. Hopper, since his injury necessitates his remaining aboard his flagship.

Admiral Badger will dine with the Governor tonight.

Representing the fourth generation of his family to choose a naval career, Admiral Badger graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy in 1911 and three years later received the Congressional medal of honour for heroism at Vera Cruz.

In the period between the two world wars, he distinguished himself by initiating devices to improve gunnery and torpedo action, and as early as 1925 was in command of the first ship to carry modern anti-aircraft battery and fire control system which has been developed under his direction.

In 1923, he was the first American officer to contact Japanese officials after the disastrous Yokohama earthquake, and supervised relief and evacuation of refugees. It is interesting to note that his contact work was carried on with the Japanese battleship Nagato, the same ship which, 22 years later, surrendered to Task Force 31 which was under his command.

HK British Accused By China Reds

Nanking, March 24.

The Chinese Communist Radio tonight accused the British in Hong Kong and Malaya of being more brutal in the treatment of Overseas Chinese than the Japanese during the occupation.

The Radio said the British in Hong Kong had deprived the natives of their democratic rights, and in a long tirade the Radio accused the Malayan authorities of unjustifiably uprooting and deporting thousands of Chinese in "flagrant violation of promised self-government."

The Radio promised that when the People's Democratic Republic was established, it would protect the rights of Overseas Chinese.

Dulles Warns On New Pact

Philadelphia, March 24.

John Foster Dulles, U.S. delegate to the UN, said here last night that the North Atlantic pact can halt war forever—or it can be the immediate cause of a third world conflict.

Dulles told the Philadelphia Bulletin Forum that the pact is defensive, but unless we are very careful, Soviet leaders might jump to the conclusion the pact is, in fact, offensive.

"If so," Dulles warned, "it might bring on the war which it is designed to prevent."

"The peace is not won merely by being right," Dulles insisted.

Wolf Hunt Viewed With Suspicion

Moscow, March 24.

The Soviet press cocked a wary eye today at a Finnish wolf hunt, hinting possible ulterior motives. The hunt was reported to have taken place in Lapland, which borders on Russian territory.

Pravda said the total of four wolves bagged by what it termed a highly organised expedition, "supports the theory the hunt had more important purposes."

"Ivestia," the Government newspaper, quoted the Finnish Popular Democratic newspaper "Ypva-Sanna" as saying certain American and British circles were tremendously interested in the hunt.

A Tass dispatch from Finland said "judging from the press the so-called 'wolf hunt' in Lapland with the use of radio, planes and air photos in which a large number of people took part, yielded very modest results."

"Ivestia" said two Finnish generals took part in the hunt. The Tass dispatch then said a small bag of four wolves indicated the real purpose of the hunt was something else.

A previous reference to the hunt in the Soviet press hinted that planes equipped with photographic apparatus might have been used.

been interested in taking pictures of something other than wolves.

ANKING BEING EVACUATED AS REDS ATTACK

Nanking, March 24.

About 20,000 Communist troops of General Chen Keng's Central China armies were moving South in Anhwei Province to attempt to attack Anking, an important strategic centre on the North bank of the Yangtze, 200 miles South West of Nanking, the Nationalist military spokesman announced today.

The latest telephone reports from Anking received by Reuter said the Anhwei Provincial Government, which had its temporary seat in Anking, began to evacuate the threatened city yesterday.

The Government was moving North East to Wuhu, en route for Tunkin, in the Southern tip of the province.

Reports said that Nationalist forces still held Chihlienkwan, 20 miles North of Anking.

Military observers believe if Anking falls to the Communists, communications between Nanking and Nationalist Central China's stronghold of Hankow will be cut.

The threat to Hankow was earlier reported with the movement down the Peiping-Hankow Railway of Communist columns belonging to the armies of General Liu Po-cheng.

Reports today said that the Nationalists, however, were still holding Hsinhsiang, in Honan province, more than 200 miles North of Hankow.

The spokesman confirmed that Nationalist troops had evacuated their Yangtze North bank bridgehead at Kowan.

The Communists, the spokesman claimed, now had 30 armies spread along the North bank of the Yangtze from the Anhwei and Kiangsi, and were continuing to expand their grip on the North bank in readiness for crossing, which, he said, might come before May if the Communist North China forces were brought South soon enough.

He claimed that it had been confirmed "three armies of the Communist North China Commander, General Lin Piao, had reached Chiuhsien, 30 miles North of Nanking, and that an artillery brigade was moving West towards the Yangtze near that town."

Communists were endeavouring to break through Nationalist defences along the Yangtze River in civilian clothes, the military spokesman claimed here today.

They were trying to disrupt communications, but their tricks would not succeed, he said.

Troops were keeping a close lookout for fifth columnists.

In Fanchuang area, 100 miles South West of Nanking, 100 Communist units endeavoured to cross the Yangtze on March 19, he said.

A Nationalist bombardment smashed the attempt, sinking five river craft. Three others escaped.

An unconfirmed report from Chinkiang today said half of 40 Communist river craft with attempted to cross the lower Yangtze, near Tawekling harbour, 110 miles North West of Shanghai, had been sunk.

The Communists were being bombed by Nationalist heavy guns from Kiangyin, on the South bank, where Communist craft were being spotted at dawn on March 23.

U.S. SENATE DEBATE ON AID BILL

Washington, March 24.

Senator Tom Connally, Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, opening the Senate debate today on the European aid bill, declared that economic recovery must have a right of way over any military programme for Europe.

Urging full approval of the Committee's suggested US$5,580,000,000 Senator Connally said that next year's aid must be cut considerably below the US$5,000,000,000 mark.

—Reuter.

Another report from Chinkiang said the General Tang En-po, Commander of the Nanking-Shanghai-Hangchow Area, had ordered the evacuation this week of dependents of military personnel stationed along the Nanking-Shanghai Railway.

Censorship of telegrams and letters would be re-imposed from April 1, these reports said.

Meanwhile Premier Ho Ying-chin told his newly appointed Cabinet at its first meeting that "peace must be sought with the greatest perseverance and sincerity."

Premier Ho announced that he would press on with political and military reforms, minimising government expenditure and attempting to stabilise the economy of the nation, now on the verge of bankruptcy.

"I know I have been burdened with too great a responsibility," he told his Cabinet ministers. "But I must make every effort to accomplish my work faithfully."

"I hope that all of you will sincerely help me and enable me to fulfil what I have just announced."

Nanking now awaits the Communist appointment of peace delegates. The ball was passed to the Communist capital at Peiping by the Government Cabinet meeting here this morning, which named the Nationalist peace delegates.

The Cabinet spokesman said the Government earnestly hopes the Communist Party will fix the place and date for opening negotiations so that the people's desire (for peace) can be fulfilled as early as possible.

Resignation

Sir,—We shall be interested to learn by whom the appeal for the retention of the Hon. Colonial Secretary, news of which was carried in your columns today, is sponsored.

The organisation of such an appeal conveys the impression that Mr. MacDougall's resignation is not voluntary but compulsory and, if this is so, the fact that the Colony's senior civil servant has been asked to resign requires public explanation.

If on the other hand, Mr. MacDougall's resignation is voluntary, and there is no reason to believe that it is not, we assume that the reasons advanced by him in tendering his resignation were considered good and sufficient by His Excellency the Governor, and presumably the Secretary of State for the Colonies, and an appeal of this nature savours of impertinence.

We note that no such appeal has been raised on behalf of the 11 Police officers who were dismissed without explanation. Perhaps the sponsors of this appeal would be willing to divert their misguided energies to the cause of these unfortunate men.

Our Apathy

Sir,—For a man who claims to be a journalist, Mr. John Behague's views (published in the "China Mail" on March 23) on Hong Kong in some respects show that his observations are far from intelligent.

He says he detected a cold apathy in the heart of Hong Kong (the people I presume) but he fails to give an explanation for that cold apathy. His admission ability is obviously limited, otherwise he would have gone deeper into the question.

For his information, the cold apathy is not due to lack of courage on the part of the people to think about the future. It is chiefly due to the present administration that has failed in its primary duty by neglecting the interests of the general public.

At the same time, may I point out that the general public is the majority in Hong Kong, not the few to whom Mr. John Behague has spoken.

Mr. John Behague says that the critics here "cannot turn themselves to analyse the contents of their own newspapers". Did Mr. John Behague himself attempt to analyse the contents of our newspapers during his stay in the Colony? Did he attempt to search the Correspondence Columns as visiting journalists should do to find out what the public are concerned about? Obviously he did not.

I have come to a conclusion that Mr. John Behague has based his unintelligent observations on what he overheard at a few cocktail parties where people having had a trying day are naturally not anxious to discuss anything except a few light subjects, such as tennis championships, etc.

The people are not reluctant to discuss the future. Contrary to Mr. John Behague's opinion, we have given the matter more than a fleeting thought. One obvious instance is the establishment of the Reform Club.

Mr. John Behague is impressed with the plans for the future explained to him in conversations with defence chiefs in Hong Kong. He must be one of the privileged few, as the only plan that has been made public here.

CORRESPONDENCE

The Editor takes no responsibility for views expressed in letters by correspondents, and by no means necessarily agrees with them.

Is the new Hong Kong Defence Force.

Apparently, taking his cue from conversations with the defence chiefs, Mr. John Behague says "it is a pity that those of Hong Kong's armchair critics who are shaking themselves with self-righteous rage over the increased expenditure on defence cannot rouse themselves to analyse the contents of their own newspapers."

Mr. Behague is wrong again. The public is not angered over any letter of the 21st inst. Your remarks with regard to Great Britain being able to obtain more food is still received with incredulity, not because I am a devout Socialist and can believe no ill of the present Government, please, but because I am a Socialist with the modern form of Communism, who it is agreed have the opinion that "Joe" can do no wrong. If you consider Socialists as hear-relatives of Communists, I might suggest the same relationship between Toryism and Fascism, or say that our great War-time leader "Churchill" is a kinsman of Hitler, which is ridiculous, to say the least.

It is generally known that there is a world food shortage. You state that various importers have returned from visits overseas stating that they can procure food. I would be very interested to know in what quantities, and more important—prices.

We all agree that we are hard up and fighting for economic survival, yet you infer we should pay any old price for food. If we spend too much on food, or as the opposition would say, made a few bad bargains (just like Socialists) we would have to reduce our imports of essential raw materials which are necessary for industry and our Export Drive, what would be the consequences? It would delay our recovery, mean mass unemployment again, the shops would be full of foodstuffs, but unfortunately the masses would not have the purchasing power to buy the goods.

I personally applaud that "Wizard of Finance," Sir Stafford Cripps, who is without a doubt looking to the future, not mark you, making himself or the Government popular; like our great War-time leader, he promises nothing but hard work and toil for years to come, not much like vote catching, methinks.

You state that 99 per cent of our purchases are conditioned by the tastes of the workers; what a sweeping statement, excuse my "Arty Laughter". On the one hand you tell us we are living on tick, then you go and suggest that we should produce non-essential—luxury goods—I'm sure the majority of the minority are prepared to go without their Stilton cheese. It is truly terrible that Dr. Edith Sumnerkill considers yellow soap more important than fancy cheese.

I wonder what a miner's wife would say when she visited her grocer, and he said sorry Mam, no yellow soap—but you can have a quarter of Stilton cheese. Surely, Mr. Editor, you are not trying to tell me that yellow soap is a luxury for the working class, is that an example of pandering to the workers?

In Great Britain 99 per cent of the workers' wives and mothers spend Monday mornings at the wash tub, no amahs there, chum, what are they doing, why washing dirty greasy boiler suits, etc. etc., yes sir, yellow soap is not only necessary but essential, can you imagine a miner getting his body grime off with toilet soap?

With regards to the recent elections, agreed that the seats were held by reduced majorities, what you omitted to say is that a few before the General Election were Conservative strongholds, notwithstanding the dreary outlook, forecasts of meat cuts, made before the last two elections, and the big guns of the Tory party brought into action, the Government were successful, which I think proves that the average voter is concerned only with the party that has a policy. Time will of course prove whether the present Government policy will bear fruit.

The question of a square deal for the workers, you say what is a square deal for the workers, my own interpretation is that the good things of life should be equitably shared, equitably mark you, not equally. Don't you think Mr. Editor, that a working man is entitled to (a) Security of tenure, (b) Security in old age, (c) Security in sickness and health, after all, he does help to produce the means that make security possible.

Great Britain has an over-powring burden to bear, brought about by the last war. The crushing taxation is borne or shared by all classes according to their pocket, yet you Mr. Editor—really words fail me—have the audacity to say "Is the working man never ashamed to accept the security that taxation is providing him with?"

I know that you have not visited England since the War, otherwise you would know the tough time the average working man is having, he is most certainly not being pampered at the expense of the wealthier classes.

During the war years, the horrors resulting were shared by one and all, in the air raid shelters, salla and silk mixed with printed cotton, a fine sense of comradeship arose, class barriers were laid aside, let the same spirit obtain today, and Great Britain will pull through.

Govt Opens Offensive On Karens

Rangoon, Burma, March 24.

The Burmese Government today announced a big offensive aimed at recapturing Mandalay from Karen rebels and Communists.

At the same time, North Burma Army Headquarters said that Government troops had retaken Meiktila, 90 miles South of Mandalay.

A Government spokesman said the Karens driven from Meiktila, have taken up new positions between Meiktila and the rail junction of Thazi, 13 miles away. Thazi is in Government hands.

The Government said the first big blow in the Mandalay offensive was the recapture of Amarapura, silk weaving town about seven miles South of Mandalay.

(Dispatches from Burma are subject to censorship of the Burmese Government.)

Burmese troops were reported carrying on a continuous heavy bombing of Karen positions inside Myittha.

The Karens, fighting for their own state, occupied Meiktila on February 20 and Mandalay on March 13.—Associated Press.

Obstruction Case Hearing

Hearing of the summons against Li Choi-fat, the manager of the Ritz Garden, for obstructing three police officers in the execution of their duties, was resumed before Mr. Hinching Lo at Central yesterday.

The prosecution was conducted by Superintendent T.E. Clunie, and defendant was represented by Mr. A. J. Clifford.

Further evidence was given by two witnesses, private official Inspector Young and Detective P.C. Law Wan.

After cross-examination, defence counsel, in his submission, said that the summons itself was for obstructing police officers in the execution of their duties, but there was no duty at all to enter the manager's office to investigate a alleged theft.

Mr. Clifford further said the evidence on its face value was unbelievable. The manager and staff of the Ritz Garden would certainly not attack three police officers, he added.

The magistrate ruled that there is a case to answer. Hearing is adjourned to June 28.

One .32 calibre automatic pistol was ordered to be confiscated when Chan Han-yeo alias Chan Foo, charged with possessing arms, failed to be present at the Kowloon Magistrate's court yesterday.

Defendant's bail of $100 was estreated.

Detective Sub-Inspector Summers prosecuted the case.

Milking Cows For HK Dairy Farms

(By Our Harbour Reporter)

Passengers and seamen aboard the ss. Eastern, which arrived here from Sydney yesterday with 46 cows, 23 calves and a bull, had, to quote an officer, "a milk diet" during the 24-day voyage.

The Frederick, Guernsey and Jersey gave an average of 50 gallons of fresh milk a day for the 87-man personnel of the ship and her 40 passengers.

Playing nursemaid to the pedigree bovines aboard a vessel even in rough seas was child's play to the four veteran cattlemen, who delivered their stocks to three local dairy farms, including 54 for the Dairy Farm.

But there was a trying moment when they worked for nearly three hours one night attempting to relieve a pregnant cow. Both mother and the still-born calf died, however, and were thrown overboard.

Five calves were born on route, two of them died still-born. "A day before reaching port here we encountered fresh North-East monsoon and the ship was rolling fairly badly. But unlike some of the passengers, the cattle took the upheaval rather calmly and ate their meals heartily," one of the Australians said.

The only trouble caused by bad weather was when sea spray washed away the food. "We had to feed the cattle whenever that occurred," he said.

"SHE PLAYS CAT AND MOUSE WITH ME..."

"I have no love for my wife. She promised to go through with a divorce, but she has been playing with me like a cat does with a mouse." The foregoing was said of his first wife by William Henry Walter Thorne, 34-year-old third class shipwright, who was appealing before Sir Leslie Gibson, Chief Justice, at the Court of Appeal yesterday, against the severity of the sentence passed on him by Mr. F. X. D'Almada at Central on February 5.

Thorne who was given two years' imprisonment for bigamy and making a false statement with reference to marriage, had his sentence reduced yesterday to seven months by the Appeal Court. Appellant pleaded that what he and done was not a deliberate deception.

Thorne told the Court that he had lived a miserable life with his wife and her family back home. They did not like him and were unceasingly trying to pick quarrels with him, until it got on his nerves.

He told them one day that he was going to join the Navy. They taunted him, saying that he had not the courage to do so. He joined the Navy in January, 1946.

Appellant went on to describe some of his war experiences at sea, as a result of one of which he had occasion to be sent home as an invalid. There his wife told him that she had been on intimate terms with his brother.

"That practically finished me," Thorne stated.

Thorne then told the Court how he met his second wife while walking along a Chinese bazaar in Hong Kong. Shortly after they had met, he continued, both of them realised they were in love with each other. Before he realised it, he had made a statement for marriage.

Continuing, appellant stated that he later realised his mistake when he was out on a cruise at sea, but his ship returned only a day before the marriage. He did not have the heart to tell the girl about himself because she was so happy. So he went through with the wedding ceremony.

Thorne further declared that he himself brought about the discovery of the matter by purposely not writing to the girl when he went on a cruise after the marriage, knowing she would enquire about him at the Admiralty. He voluntarily returned to Hong Kong to face the charges.

Killed By Blow Torch Explosion

A youthful apprentice employed at the Chung Fat Leong Shop was at his work one day when suddenly the blow torch in his hand exploded, causing severe burns which resulted in his death the following day.

The boy was Wong Kan, aged 18. The inquiry into his death was held before Mr. Blair-Kerr at Kowloon yesterday with Detective Sub-Inspector Kavanagh conducting the proceedings.

Mr. Richard Terry, Government Chemist in the witness box, said that in his opinion the lamp exploded because it contained petrol instead of kerosene which was the fuel for that type of lamp.

Wong died of shock caused by the intensive burns he suffered, said Mr. Blair-Kerr in his findings.

"The purpose of this inquiry is to point out to the public so that they may benefit by this man's death," concluded Mr. Blair-Kerr, referring to the use of wrong fuel for a specially designed lamp.

TIME TO BID STRONGLY

HAVING doubled an opponent's opening and heard a well-fitting response from your partner, it is incumbent upon you to proceed gingerly until you know whether his hand is valueless or not. But if the second opponent has intercepted a bid after your double, and your partner nevertheless had bid, you should know your associate has a hand of some value. He has made a free bid. If your own hand is such then that you know the side has enough for a game or better, you should on your next turn bid as high as the combined strength justifies or else put a force on the side by making either a jump of one more than necessary or a cue-bid of an opponent's suit.

And North of course passed that. It couldn't help sending to him as if South had made an extremely shaded double and was happy enough to reach out for a part-score. South was distressed by North's pass of the 2-Spades when he saw his partner take all except the opening trick in clubs. But he should not have been. North, however, had every reason for being ready to explode, when he saw that terrific dummy—a term which this time could well be applied to the holder as well as to the cards.

South had a number of better bids available when the call came to him on the second round. He could have shot the works with an immediate 6-Spade, or invited slam with a simple 5-Spades. Or he could have cue-bid hearts if he felt he wanted to fool around a while. Or he could have Blackwooded with 4-No Trumps if he wanted to hear about North's aces. Or, if his pair used 3-Spades as a sure force to game, he might have tried that. What he actually did was about the only wrong thing you can think of.

Your Week-End Question
If your partner responds to your informative double with a jump to 2-No Trumps, you then bid three in a five-card suit and he calls 3-No Trumps, should you then show another and lower ranking five-carder at the level of four?

WALT DISNEY'S LATEST FULL-LENGTH FEATURE COMING TO THE KING'S

Most of Walt Disney fans agree that his inimitable films are at their best when the human element is restricted to the sound track, leaving fantasy in full possession of the screen.

In "Melody Time," coming to the King's Theatre, we have another mixture of cartoon and live action but this will be forgiven if only for the wholly delightful group of new Disney characters which are sure to charm the young of all ages.

First, Disney revives one of America's oldest legends, that of Johnny Appleseed, who persistently planted apple seeds to sprout orchards in the wake of the covered wagons through Ohio, Indiana and the neighbouring territories.

Johnny is a lovable little character, "The Lord is Good to Me," he sings, as he tramps along with his stew-pot on his head, a little under his arm and bearing a great bag of apple seeds.

His mentor is something new in the ranks of Good Spirits, the "Gentle in Countenance," a rather tough looking advisor who urges Johnny on to further good works.

Then there is "Little Toad" destined to become the favourite of small boys the world over. Little Toad is a troublesome lug-bent, the scourge of New York Harbour, always in and out of trouble, mostly in.

The champion of all the cowboys is another new character, Peck Bill, astride his famous steed Wildflower, in romantic pursuit of Sheriff Sue.

"Humble Boggle" is the fantasy of a little boy, in which exploding flower petals turn into performing piano keys, caterpillars and butterflies to give the best scope to Technicolor.

Seven sequences, backed by live action and vocal backgrounds by a host of popular artists including Ray Rogers, the Andrews Sisters, Francis Langford, Ethel Smith and Dennis Day.

No story... but who cares about a little thing like that?

Ty Power Latest Bad Boy

"Nightmare Alley," (King's Theatre) is another film glorifying a thoroughly bad character, who scrapes through to a happy ending in a fit of alcoholic remorse.

We seem to be in for a spate of bad boys, who go bad because they like it that way and only turn a somewhat bedraggled new leaf because fate has caught up with them at last.

Ty Power is our latest bad boy. As Simon Carlisle, he bursts on our gaze as a Barker for a travelling carnival, wearing the loudest of suits and the craziest of ties.

Despite this, he persuades Joan Blondell to fall for him, causes her drunken husband's death by plying him with raw alcohol, and steps into his shoes as partner with Joan in a mental wizard act.

Having learned all the tricks, he proceeds to ditch Joan and continues on his career with another partner, Colleen Gray, who plays the side-show chorus beauty who adores him with simple-hearted fervour.

With her, he crashes into the stage and night-club world, with a little swindling on the side. The third woman in his life is played by Helen Walker, as a cultured psychologist who proves more than a match for him at last.

We don't see enough of Joan Blondell, who is one of the few stars with character and humour as well as acting ability.

"La Traviata" To Be Presented At Lee's

Every lover of grand opera will want to see "The Lost One," coming next week to the Lee Theatre.

This is something new in motion picture experience. Verdi's famous opera "La Traviata," which was based on Alexandre Dumas' great love story "The Lady of the Camellias," comes to the screen almost in its entirety.

Leading the cast is Nelly Corradi, the Italian opera star, who has that rarest of combinations, a lovely voice, the ethereal beauty which we associate with Violetta and acting ability seldom seen in opera.

The entire opera is sung in the Italian of Pinve's libretto, with a well placed commentary in English in the form of Violetta's thoughts, linking the sequences of that short, tragic story of the femme du monde who discovers a love such as she never knew existed, only to renounce it for the sake of her lover.

There is no attempt to make this film anything other than opera on the screen; scenery and setting form a perfect background but nothing is permitted to interfere with the singing.

Gino Maltara, in his first film role, makes a dark, romantic Alfredo with an attractive tenor, while the veteran Manfredi Polverosi plays his father, Georg Germont.

Verdi's immortal melodies provide a feast for music lovers in a film which has been rightly described as the best presentation of grand opera yet to reach the screen.

Bergman In Dull Thriller

Next week brings the long awaited premiere of "Arch of Triumph" (Queen's Theatre), starring Ingrid Bergman and Charles Boyer, with Charles Laughton leading the supporting cast.

Miss Bergman, acclaimed Hong Kong's most popular actress and winner of the "Gold Star" Film Award, gives a fine performance in an unconvincing role.

The film is a too long drawn out story of the romance between two refugees in pre-war Paris. In spite of the efforts of the three main characters, the tale remains dull and the dialogue lifeless.

Ingrid Bergman has a high reputation for the sincerity of her acting but in the part of a woman so lacking in understanding as Jean Miro, she is hardly at her best.

The setting is mainly Paris, 1938. On a rainy night, Jean meets Ravi (Charles Boyer), refugee doctor from Vienna. Her lover has just died and she is in a state of shock.

Soon she turns to the kind, busy charming doctor for consolation. They take a trip to the Riviera where they spend their happiest hours together.

After their return to Paris, Ravi is deported and Jean, little trust or faith, starts hitting the high spots with a wealthy man about town.

In his less romantic moments, Boyer is busy tracking down the sinister Gestapo agent Hanke, admirably portrayed by Charles Laughton in another "villain" role. Whether you prefer Laughton's sensitive, gentle and humorous or cruel, sadistic and evil — and he is a master in either role — there's no doubt he makes one of the screen's finest villains.

The irony of Remarque's best selling novel, the trend, disillusionment and futility as experienced by these refugees within the very sight of the Arc de Triomphe makes, at the best, a tedious, slow-moving vehicle for famous names.

One of the oldest companies in the film business, Pathe, has just changed its name to Associated British-Pathe Ltd.

During the past five years the company has been modernized and has become one of the leading renting organisations, handling 250 to 300 films a year, from such big box office successes as "Piccadilly Incident," "Duel in the Sun," "Brighton Rock," and "No Room at the Inn," to educational.

The company, already closely identified with the Associated British Picture Corporation — it handles the output of vast new studios at Elstree, as well as films from Welwyn — is also involved in the development of theatre television.

WINSTON CHURCHILL'S WAR MEMOIRS: THE SECOND BOOK

THEIR FINEST HOUR

Need For Munitions And Credits

By Winston Churchill

The object of the foregoing measures is to reduce to manageable proportions the present destructive losses at sea. In addition it is indispensable that the merchant tonnage available for supplying Great Britain, and for the waging of the war by Great Britain with all vigour, should be substantially increased beyond the 14m. tons per annum which is the utmost we can now build. The convoy system, the detours, the zig-zags, the great distances from which we have to bring our imports, and the congestion of our Western harbours, have reduced by about one-third the fruitfulness of our existing tonnage. To ensure final victory, not less than 3 millions of additional merchant ship-building capacity will be required. Only the United States can supply this need.

Moreover, we look to the industrial energy of the Republic for a reinforcement of our domestic capacity to manufacture combat aircraft. Without that reinforcement reaching us in substantial measure, we shall not achieve the massive preponderance of arms and munitions which should stand stripped to the bone. Such a course would not be in the moral or economic interests of either of our countries. We here should be unable, after the war, to purchase the huge tonnage of imports from the United States over and above the volume of our exports which is accessible to your tariffs and industrial economy. Not only should we in Great Britain suffer cruel privations, but widespread unemployment in the United States would follow the curtailment of American exports.

Guide Them

Moreover, I do not believe that the Government and people of the United States could find it in accordance with the principles which guide them to continue the help which they have so generously promised only to such conditions of war and commodities as could be immediately paid for. You may be certain that we shall prove ourselves ready to suffer and sacrifice to the utmost for the Cause, and that we glory in being its champions. The rest we leave with confidence to your statesmen, and to your people, being sure that ways and means will be found. His problem was how to carry his country with him and to persuade Congress to follow his guidance. According to Stettinius, the President, as early as the late summer, had suggested a meeting of the Defence Advisory Commission on Shipping Resources that "it should not be necessary for the British to ask their own funds and have ships built in the United States, or for us to loan them money for this purpose. There is no reason why we should not take a finished vessel and leave it to them for the duration of the emergency."

It seems that this idea had originated in the Treasury Department, where Mr. C. D. Jackson, then Secretary of the Treasury, had been thinking of Secretary Morgenthau. It appeared that a statute of 1892, the Secretary for War, when in his direction it will be for the public good, could have been amended to provide for the use of this Statute by the Government of various arms, if in this time were on record.

That the word "lease" and the idea of applying the lease principle to meeting British need, had been in President Roosevelt's mind for some time as an alternative to a policy of indefinite loans which are in the air on which we must rely to loosen and disintegrate the German grip on Europe. You have also received information about the needs of our armies in the various spheres, in spite of enemy bombing, we are making steady progress here. Without your continued assistance in the supply of machine tools and in further releases from stock of certain articles, we could not hope to equip as many as 50 divisions in 1941. I am grateful for the arrangements, already practically completed, for your aid in the equipment of the army which we have already planned, and for the provision of the American type of weapons for an additional 10 divisions in time for the campaign of 1942. But when the tide of Dictatorship begins to recede, many countries trying to regain their freedom may be asking for arms, and there is no source to which they can look except the factories of the United States. I must therefore also urge the importance of expanding to the utmost American productive capacity for small arms, artillery and tanks.

Elsewhere, however, the situation is vastly different, particularly where civilised Europeans are in contact with "backward" residents of the jungle and the veld. The gap between the peoples is very great. And whatever the enthusiasts say, both sides have a horror of miscegenation. In such lands, many inextricable problems, fears and hatreds are admitted features of everyday life. Human beings may be all of one flesh and blood, but unless there is some similarity between their degree of culture, ideals etc.—as there is between many English and Chinese—much discord is inevitable.

Australia is trying to avoid such situations; she has no overt racial problem at the moment, and is endeavouring to avoid one. Many hard things have been said about her present policy, but those of us safely out of it—no doubt with justification. Her motives are not simple, and are bound up with trade union fears of competition from hard-working Asiatics, as well as less savoury reasons. Her stand may be at variance with the times, too, but the point we are trying to make is that this is her own country, whose policies only Australia can decide.

found which future generations on both sides of the Atlantic will approve and admire. If, as I believe, you are convinced, Mr. President, that the defeat of the Nazi and Fascist tyrannies is a matter of high consequence to the people of the United States and to the Western Hemisphere, you will regard this letter not as an appeal for aid, but as a statement of the minimum action necessary to achieve our common cause.

Mr. Churchill had on December 8, 1940, sent President Roosevelt a letter (of which the salient passages were reproduced in yesterday's instalment) setting out Britain's position in the forthcoming year and emphasising that "the moment approaches when we shall no longer be able to pay cash for shipping and other supplies." The letter, which was one of the most important I ever wrote, reached our great friend when he was crisscrossing on board an American warship, the Tuscaloosa, in the sunlight of the Caribbean Sea. He had only his own intimates around him, Harry Hopkins, then unknown to me, told me later that Mr. Roosevelt read and re-read the letter as he sat alone in his deck-chair, and that for two days he did not seem to have reached any clear conclusion. He was plunged in intense thought, and brooded silently.

From all this there sprang a wonderful decision. It was never a question of the President not knowing what he wanted to do.

Own Funds: Finally I am trying to eliminate the dollar mark.

On Leave: I next turned to Lord Halifax, whose prestige in the Conservative party stood high, and was enhanced by his being at the Foreign Office. For a Foreign Secretary to become an Ambassador marks in a unique manner the importance of the Mission. His high character was everywhere respected, yet at the same time his record in the years before the war and the way in which events had moved left him exposed to much disapprobation and even hostility from the Labour side of our National Coalition. I knew that he was conscious of this himself.

On this foundation the ever-famous Lend-Lease Bill was at once prepared for submission to Congress. I described this to Parliament later as "the most unworldly act in the history of any nation." Once it was accepted by Congress it transformed immediately the whole position. It made us free to share by agreement long term plans, vast extent for all our equipment. There was not even to be a formal account kept in dollars or sterling. What we had was lent or leased however our continued resistance to the Hitler tyranny was deemed to be of vital interest to the United States. The defence of the United States—and not dollars—was henceforth to determine where American weapons were to go.

The End: It was at this moment, the most important in his public career, that Philip Lathrop, then British Ambassador in Washington, was taken from us. Shortly after his return to Washington he fell suddenly and gravely ill. He worked unrelentingly to the end. On December 12, in the full tide of success, he died. This was a loss to the nation and to the Cause. He was mourned by wide circles of friends on both sides of the ocean. To me, who had been in such intimate contact with him in a House of Commons united in deep respect for his work and memory.

I had one to turn immediately to the choice of his successor. It seemed that our relations with the U.S. at this time required an Ambassador an outstanding national figure and a statesman versed in every aspect of world politics. Having ascertained that Mr. George C. Marshall would be acceptable, I invited Mr. Lloyd George to take the post. He had not felt able to join the War Cabinet in July, and was not happily circumstanced in British politics. His outlook on the war and the events leading up to it was from a different angle from mine. There could be no doubt, however, that he was our foremost citizen, and that his incomparable gifts and experience would be devoted to the success of his mission. I had a long talk with him in the Cabinet Room, and also at luncheon on a second day.

He showed genuine pleasure at having been invited. "I tell my friends," he said, "I have had honourable offers made to me by the Prime Minister." He was sure that at the age of 77 he ought not to undertake so exacting a task. As a result of my long conversations with him, I was conscious that he had had even in the months which had passed since I had asked him to join the War Cabinet, and with much regret but also with conviction I abandoned my plan.

Catches Fire: "Suppose my neighbour's house catches fire and I have a length of garden hose four or five hundred feet away. If he can take my garden hose and connect it up with his hydrant, I may help him to put out the fire. Now what do I do? I don't say to him 'Before that operation, 'Neighbour, my garden hose cost me $15; you have to pay me $15 for it.' No! What is the transaction that goes on? I don't want $15—I want my garden hose back after the fire is over." And again:

There is absolutely no doubt in the mind of a very overwhelming number of Americans that the best immediate defence of the United States is the success of Great Britain in defending itself; and that, therefore, quite aside from our historic and current interest in the survival of Democracy in the world as a whole, it is equally important from a selfish point of view and of American defence that we should do everything possible to help the British Empire to defend itself.

On Leave: I next turned to Lord Halifax, whose prestige in the Conservative party stood high, and was enhanced by his being at the Foreign Office. For a Foreign Secretary to become an Ambassador marks in a unique manner the importance of the Mission. His high character was everywhere respected, yet at the same time his record in the years before the war and the way in which events had moved left him exposed to much disapprobation and even hostility from the Labour side of our National Coalition. I knew that he was conscious of this himself.

We thought this correspondent deserved a corner in print anyway. "Dear Editor," it may interest you to know that I was going to write a story for your paper. But I find stories easier to read than to write.

Which reminds me of the church of conversation I overheard recently at one of these push cocktail parties:

"Oh, as you write? How interesting! I read."

"She stands divinely attired and trim Beside the curb and on the brink Of torrents dark the rain had made. An angel bright in a dismal glade. A taxi hurrying, splashed a squirt Of oily water upon her skirt. As swift as thought she turned her head— 'You... xxx??!! ???' she said."

All this from a recent magazine. Readers were asked to supply the missing words. Myrtle suggests, "You careless, thoughtless youth."

"Atomic town opened to tourists. Roll up for the biggest bang on earth."

A Soviet historian claims that a Russian invented the first heavier-than-air plane. What for—air-lifting?

Myrtle thinks a barbershop is a hairdresser's waiting list.

After a cow killed a bee with its tail, a swarm of about 60,000 stung her to death, leaving 10,000 casualties of their own. It happened in Tohira, Japan.

"Another new dress! Where's your think I'm going to get the money to pay for it?"

"That's your affair. I didn't marry you to give you advice on financial matters."

Supreme Soviet member: "The Soviet people are a nation of victors." Including Victor Kravchenko.

"I thought this was to be a non-stop flight!"

Campaign Against Rebels To Continue

London, March 23. — British and American spokesmen today pledged their countries to maintain their support of the Greek Government in its struggle against the Communist rebels.

In the House of Commons today, the Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Mr. Christopher Mayhew, said: "The House may be assured that the campaign against the foreign-sponsored rebel force in Greece will not be diminished nor confined to the methods which have been previously employed."

"The Foreign Secretary has this as one of the subjects on the agenda of his conversation with Mr. Dean Acheson in Washington."

Mr. Acheson, the U.S. Secretary of State, told a Washington press conference today that the Atlantic Pact did not lessen American interest in the security and independence of Greece, Turkey and Persia.

Mr. Acheson issued his statement to emphasize the United States' interest in the security of countries in other areas than the North Atlantic, particularly the Near and the Middle East.

The statement said: "During the drafting of the North Atlantic Pact, we were aware of the possibility that our formal expression of interest in the security of countries in other areas might be interpreted as implying a lessening of our interest in the security of countries in the Near and the Middle East."

Strategic experts here feel that if the Atlantic pact should result in Russian moves toward war they probably will occur in Greece before Turkey or Iran.

It is felt, however, that any overt act against Turkey or Iran, even though they are not tied to the pact, would be such obvious acts of aggression that an all-out war might result.

The sources pointed out that the Russian moves in Greece might be camouflaged behind increased aid to the Greek rebels, which could place the United States and other pact nations in a dangerous position.

London, March 23. — Britain's National Health Service will cost £259,750,000 in the coming year, according to Government Estimates published today.

Doctors, under the new free service for every member of the public will be paid about £40 million. Chemists will get nearly £19 million for supplying drugs and medicines.

Free dental treatment will cost £28 million—an increase of more than £9 million on last year.

The figures indicated that the first rush for free spectacles and eye tests was beginning to fall off. Optical services will cost the State £12,600,000—a decrease of about £1,000,000.—Reuter.

No Talks On Pacific Alliance

Washington, March 23. — The U.S. Secretary of State, Mr. Dean Acheson, said today that the proposals for a Pacific Pact had not been brought officially to the notice of the United States Government.

Mr. Acheson was asked at his weekly press conference if he had given any official consideration to suggestions for a defence agreement among the nations of the Pacific and bringing in Australia and other countries.

He declared: "No such pact has come before us but it may be on its way." In any case, Mr. Acheson explained, the matter is not in the stage of any official consideration.

The Secretary of State said that the United States was already interested in some security matters in the Pacific through its membership of the Far Eastern Commission and the Allied Council for Japan.

Mr. Acheson, questioned on recent reports that control in Japan would now be transferred from military to civilian authorities, declared: "We have no such plans and there has been no discussion of the civil administration of Japan."

In London, there have been no official talks on a possible Pacific defence alliance, Mr. Christopher Mayhew, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, told the House of Commons today.

In answer to a Parliamentary question today by Mr. William Teeling, Conservative, who had asked if, in the coming consultations for a Pacific pact, Japan's "peculiar position" would be considered together with the possibility of the powers concerned making a separate pact with Japan and including her in the pact, Mr. Mayhew said no consultations had been arranged for a Pacific pact.

When Mr. Mayhew said the question was based on a false assumption, Mr. Teeling referred to a statement by the Australian Prime Minister, Mr. Joseph B. Chifley, that it was high time a Pacific pact was arranged.

Mr. Mayhew replied: "I believe there was some misunderstanding about the statement of the Australian Prime Minister. There have been no consultations arranged for a Pacific pact."

Malay Guerillas Kill 67 Britons Within One Year

London, March 23. — Twenty-seven civilian British subjects and 40 European British members of the security forces were killed in Malaya in the 12 months ended March 17, 1949, the Colonial Secretary, Mr. Arthur Creech Jones, told Parliament today.

Asked if he was satisfied that the planters were being given sufficient protection and whether the dangerous situation was clearing up or could he see any improvement, Mr. Creech Jones said:

"The situation is not what we would wish it to be, but it is easier. Everything that can be done is being done. The situation is being most carefully studied, and we are helping in every way we can."

Mr. Lennox Bowd, Conservative, asked if that meant that the High Commissioner had received everything he had asked for, Mr. Creech Jones said: "All his requests so far have been met."

Mr. Henderson Stewart, Liberal National, asked whether the Minister still kept in touch with unofficial opinion which, he said, might well give him the best information on these matters.

Mr. Creech Jones: "I receive a large number of letters and representations from unofficial opinion. I study their representations most carefully and we maintain constant touch with the High Commissioner to see in what way the situation can be improved."

He assured Air Commodore Harvey that "we are trying to give all the planters and miners all the support we can."

Red's Questions. Asked by Mr. Piratin, Communist, to state the charges upon which sentence of death was passed on Mr. Ganapathy, former President of the Pan-Malayan Federation of Trade Unions, Mr. Creech Jones replied that Ganapathy was sentenced to death on a charge of carrying a revolver and six rounds of ammunition.

He had appealed and his appeal is still pending. Mr. Piratin: "Is there a law in Malaya which permits the authorities to sentence a man to death for carrying a revolver?"

Mr. Creech Jones: "I have made a complete statement to the House in regard to the emergency regulations and the new ordinance that is necessary to meet the existing emergency in Malaya."

Compensation Claims. Replying to complaints of indignation felt in Malaya at the inability of the various authorities to deal efficiently with compensation claims, Mr. Creech Jones said that claims either on the military or civil authorities.

CALWELL UPHOLDS GOVT'S WHITE AUSTRALIA POLICY, DENIES QUOTA SYSTEM

Japan's Population Problem

Tokyo, March 22. Mr. Pascal K. Whelpton, internationally known demographer, has been added to the efforts to solve Japan's rising population problem.

Mr. Whelpton arrived in Tokyo today to begin work as a visiting expert consultant to General MacArthur's Headquarters officials on a number of population problems.

Mr. Whelpton, an associate director for the Scripps Foundation of Research in Population Problems, will concern himself with problems involving the relation of population growth to the conservation of natural resources, exploration of attitudes and opinions toward population problems and control, preparations for the 1950 census and estimates of the future rise of population in Japan.

In these activities he will work with several of SCAP's staff sections—the Economic and Scientific, Natural Resources, Public Health and Welfare and Civil Information and Education sections. Mr. Warren Thompson, director of the same foundation, has been in Japan now for several weeks as consultant to General MacArthur on the population problem. United Press.

Settlement Expected

London, March 23. Britain expects an amicable settlement with Chile and Argentina over their claims on the Falkland Islands Antarctic dependencies. Mr. Christopher Mayhew, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, stated in Parliament today.

Stating that Argentina had set up three posts and Chile two in defiance of British protests, Mr. Mayhew added: "In August last the future of the whole Antarctic region was the subject of a formal approach by the United States Government to the Governments of the countries concerned. The outcome of that approach is not yet clear."

He refuted assertions that the Government's attitude towards Argentina and Chile had been weak, saying that Britain had shown a good example of restraint and of going through the proper form of international procedure.—Reuter.

Melbourne, March 23. The Immigration Minister, Mr. Arthur Calwell, today firmly upheld the Government's White Australia policy, saying there would be no appeasement, no quota system for the admission of Asiatics.

The history of South Africa, the United States of America and other countries, where people of different races lived side by side, could be repeated here, Mr. Calwell stated at Bendigo, Victoria.

So long as the Labour Party remained in power, it would insist on "our sovereign right to determine what people shall make up our population."

"Today's threat to the White Australia policy must be firmly and fearlessly met," he said. "No matter how fierce and unrelenting the attacks upon me personally may be, I am determined that the flag of White Australia will not be lowered."

Mr. Calwell said he would refer Australia's immigration laws to the Cabinet for review in the light of a High Court decision invalidating certain sections of the law relating to the Commonwealth's power to deport prohibited immigrants.

(This was believed here to be a reference to the cases in which the Australian High Court ruled last week that Mrs. Annie O'Keefe, the Indonesian-born wife of an Australian, would remain in Australia.)

Main Pillar

Mr. Calwell said this court ruling knocks down one of the main pillars upon which the White Australia policy had formerly rested since 1901. "I can give the assurance that so long as the Australian Labour Party remains in power there will be no watering down of the White Australia policy," he added.

"There will be no quota system for the admission of Asiatics, no appeasement or any other administrative action which would imperil the hard-won living standards which we inherited from our forebears."

"So long as the Labour Party remains in power we shall insist on maintaining our sovereign right to determine what people shall make up our population."

"The White Australia policy is not a colour bar. It began as a positive aspiration and from it has resulted a positive achievement. This achievement is a united race of freedom-loving Australians, who can intermarry and associate without the disadvantages that inevitably result from the fusion of dissimilar races, a united people who share the same loyalties, the same outlook, and the same traditions."

Mr. Calwell said experience in Australia had shown that a pocket of Asiatic people entitled to permanent residence caused constant pressure for permission to bring in their relatives and friends.

Australia also has had experience of how rapidly the number of Asiatic settlers increased in the absence of adequate immigration controls. "The history of South Africa, the United States of America, and other countries, where people of different races and living standards live side by side, would be repeated here," he said.

Care Of Problem

As a result of a legal interpretation, Mr. Calwell said, Australia had for the first time in her history the core of a problem that has caused so much tragedy, bloodshed and murderous strife in other countries.

The effect of the High Court decision, was that every non-European admitted to Australia on a certificate of exemption, and who had resided there for five years or longer, could not now be compulsorily repatriated.

Mr. Calwell said Australia had something to learn from several Asiatic countries on the subject of restricted immigration, and quoted laws in Burma, Ceylon, Fiji and the Philippines, which covered various categories of Asiatics.

Mr. Calwell referred to the damage done to a universally held principle by sentimentalists, political agitators, Communists and stunting newspapers.

He said newspapers had developed a technique of spotlighting individual cases where compassion seemed to demand that a particular Asiatic should be allowed to remain.

He was being represented as a heartless monster. His heart was as tender and sensitive as the next man, but he was personally responsible to the Australian people for the maintenance of the present composition of the population upon which 99.9 per cent of Australians insist.

Mr. Calwell was speaking at the annual conference of the Australian Natives Association, an organisation composed of people of European descent born in Australia.—Reuter.

U.S. COLOUR BAR

Baltimore, March 23. Seven white persons were fined and received suspended prison sentences here for promoting a mixed tennis outing last summer for whites and Negroes. They were convicted of conspiring to disturb the peace. The State thus avoided a direct test of the segregation policy in Baltimore's municipal parks.—Reuter.

MacArthur Remembers

Tokyo, March 23. Corporal Lorenzo Gamboa made a wish and it came true. Gamboa wished for General Douglas MacArthur's help in getting into Australia to see his wife and two children. He is barred from "White" Australia because he is an Asiatic. Gamboa said "If General MacArthur only remembers the Filipino boy who cleaned his desk every morning in Port Moresby."

The General saw the Associated Press story on Gamboa, remembered him, and said he will do all he can for the corporal.—Associated Press.

ACHESON REPLIES TO CHARGE

Washington, March 23.

The Secretary of State, Mr. Dean Acheson, today branded as altogether false the Soviet charges that the United States is building military bases in Iran from which to attack Russia.

He said at the same time that American interest in the North Atlantic area should not be misinterpreted by anyone as implying the lessening of American interest in Greece, Turkey, Iran and other Middle Eastern countries.

Mr. Acheson told a press conference that more than 92 American military officers and men are in Iran. He said they are only advising the Iranian military forces on organisation and supply matters and assisting Iran to build an adequate internal police force.

He said the Soviet pressure on Iran in the form of persistent press and radio propaganda seems to have intensified in recent weeks.

Mr. Acheson declared that the Soviet charges that the United States intends to transform Iran into a military base to be used against the Soviet Union were "altogether false and untrue."—United Press.

GERMAN PILOT DISCHARGED

Cuxhaven, March 23. A German pilot, charged with running a British ship ashore, was acquitted by a German maritime court here today because he had not been trained in radar technique.

An Allied ordinance bars radar training for Germans. The ship, the 4,157-ton Empire Baltic, ran aground in the Elbe in hazy weather on February 18.

It was understood here that the German authorities will now prepare a memorandum asking the Allied occupation authorities to allow German pilots to be trained in radar.—Reuter.

East Orange, N.J., March 23. Dr. Harry Rentschler, aged 68, famous physicist, died today. He did experiments with uranium which provided the first pure uranium needed for the development of the atom bomb.—United Press.

ISRAELI TROOPS START LEBANON WITHDRAWAL

Ras El Nagura, March 23. Israeli troops holding villages in the Lebanon State started withdrawing today under the terms of an armistice signed by the two countries at this frontier post.

The agreement, described by neutral observers as consisting mainly of Israeli compromises, is the second of the separate armistices being negotiated between Israel and her Arab opponents. An agreement with Egypt was signed last month.

Today's signing ceremony took 12 minutes, and immediately afterwards Israeli troops began clearing mines from the main road from Haifa to Beirut.

According to an Israeli Government spokesman, British intervention in Transjordan was the real cause of the interruption in the Rhodes talks.

Dr. Ralph Bunche, Acting Palestine Mediator, reported to the Security Council last night that patrolling activity by both sides, and reinforcements of troops, including British, in the Akaba area, are in conflict with the truce conditions which have been accepted by both sides.

The Israeli Government has already complained to the Council that the presence of British troops at Akaba is a violation of the Council resolution of May 28, and warned that their presence could have an adverse effect on the negotiations with Transjordan.—Reuter.

UN Instructs Commission To Start Preliminary Talks On Indonesia Peace

Lake Success, March 23.

The UN Security Council has instructed its Commission for Indonesia to begin preliminary talks with the Netherlands and the Republican Government of Indonesia as the basis for the round-table conference at the Hague to end the troublesome 19-month-old hostilities in the East Indies.

The proposal introduced by General A. G. L. McNaughton of Canada instructed the UN Indonesian Commission to find a way for the peaceful return of the Republican government to its capital at Jogjakarta.

This was ordered previously by the Security Council in a resolution adopted on January 25. However, Holland, while agreeing to transfer sovereignty to the Dutch-Indonesian Federation in which the Republic would have one-third control, has maintained that it cannot return the Republican leaders to Jogjakarta at this time. The Republicans are now on Banka Island.

Once the UN Commission, in consultation with the Netherlands and the Republic, has solved the problem of return to Jogjakarta, it will attempt to work out an agreement on the time and conditions for the conference to be held at the Hague. Holland, the Republic, the United Nations Commission and the Dutch-backed group of Indonesian Federalists were originally invited to participate in this conference.

Now Agreeable

The Indonesian Republicans, represented at the Council debate by an official spokesman, at first refused to participate in the preliminary conference ordered by the UN, but later agreed on condition that it would lead within two weeks to the return of their government to Jogjakarta.

The Council voted eight to nil with three abstentions to support General McNaughton's proposal, after Warren Austin, chief U.S. delegate, had thrown American support wholeheartedly behind it.

The U.S. originally took the position that the Security Council's January 28 resolution must be enforced and the Republican return to Jogjakarta effected at once.

Supporting the latest UN plan, Mr. Austin said: "Neither party has to lose dignity or honour. Neither has to make any admissions that are derogatory. Fears on both sides exceed realities and the proposition now before us offers an opportunity for coming together and making their own settlement."

Gromyko Again To Represent USSR At UN

London, March 23.
Chief Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko has left Moscow for New York to head the Soviet delegation at the April meeting of the United Nations General Assembly.

The Moscow Radio heard here by the Soviet monitor, said the Soviet delegation will also include Jakob Malik, another Deputy Foreign Minister and chief Soviet representative in the Security Council, Georgi N. Zarubin, Soviet Ambassador to Great Britain, Alexander S. Panyushkin, Ambassador to the United States and S.K. Tsarapkin, deputy representative in the Security Council. The naming of Gromyko as head of the delegation apparently means that Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky will not attend.—Associated Press.

Churchill Greeted In New York By Pickets Protesting New Pact

New York, March 23.

Mr. Winston Churchill arrived in New York today and was greeted by several hundred pickets protesting against the Atlantic Pact.

A large crowd, estimated at more than 2,000 persons, watched the demonstrators, who carried placards with slogans such as "We can't be sold on war, Mr. Churchill" and "North Atlantic Pact? No. Soviet-American peace pact? Yes."

Two White House secret service agents met the liner, Queen Elizabeth, in the quarantine area. At least eight other detectives were on the pier and details of police were scattered in the area.

Transfer Of German Territory

Paris, March 23.

The British, United States, French and Benelux Government experts agreed here today on the transfer of 58 square miles of former German territory to Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg and France, it was reliably learned from a source close to the experts.

These minor rectifications were reached after weeks of difficult discussions aimed at protecting the personal and national interests of the 12,000 to 16,000 Germans involved.

The experts' recommendations will be forwarded to the six Governments for endorsement. They are to be the subject of an official communiqué later this week, it was learned at the French Foreign Office tonight.

The agreement refers only to minor claims by Germany's Western neighbours. Major claims, spear-headed by Holland, who wants compensation for the regions flooded by the Germans during the war, have been postponed for future consideration.—Reuter.

FIGHT FOR LIFE

Sydney, March 23.

Doctors and nurses here were fighting today for the life of a 10-inch baby born three months prematurely. The child, which weighed under two pounds at birth, was being kept alive in an oxygen tent.—Reuter.

The Latest-- A Frog Tale

Lincoln, March 23.

The people of Manor Road, Lincoln, are keeping their doors barred against a plague of frogs, which invaded the district last night from a cemetery close by.

The frogs arrived like an army, one resident said, and croaked like two or three old men anoring.

Residents used electric torches to avoid stepping on the frogs hopping about in hundreds. The invaders are believed to have come from a disused fire service water tank in the cemetery.—Reuter.

Iron Curtain Delegates Arrive In U.S.

New York, March 23.
Delegates from behind the Iron Curtain began arriving here today for the Cultural and Scientific Conference for World Peace.

The first to arrive from Eastern Europe were four Czechoslovakians, who landed at Idlewild Airport. Three members of the Polish delegation arrived later at LaGuardia Airport.

They included Pawel Hoffman, writer and editor, said to have been the only Polish journalist at the Bitchi atom bomb tests; Leon Kruczkowski, novelist and playwright; and Stanislaw Ossowski, professor of sociology at Warsaw University.

Delegates from Russia and Yugoslavia are to arrive later.

The "peace conference", which will be held this week-end at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, has been described by the United States State Department as a sounding board for Soviet propaganda.

Jeri Hronek, director of the news section of the Ministry of Information of Czechoslovakia, acted as spokesman for the Czechs as they stepped from the plane at the airport.

No Division

He said: "We think we shall be able to prove that what is called the Iron Curtain here does not divide the world, but that the world is divided simply into those who foment war and seek war and those hundreds of millions of human beings all over the world who want peace."

The Czechs were met at the airport by the cultural attaché of the Czechoslovakian Consulate in New York. In addition to Mr. Hronek, the delegation included Dr. Jan Boor, representative of the Slovak Department of Education in the 1947 UNESCO conference in Mexico City; Ferdinand Herik, Dean of the Natural Science School at Masaryk University; and Ladislav Stoll, Dean of the Academy of Political and Social Science in Prague.

The Russian delegates flying here for the conference are under no instructions from their government and will be free to speak their own minds, according to a spokesman for the group.—United Press.

BUENOS AIRES DISORDERS

Buenos Aires, March 23.

Police fired into the air here today when a shout of "Viva Tito" started disorders during a Buenos Aires park meeting of the Third Slav Congress of Argentina.

A refreshment booth was broken up in a free fight and passengers in a passing street car were knocked about. Mounted police made several arrests.—Reuter.

Exhibition Of Local Sculptor-Painter's Work

NATHAN ROAD'S "WALL"

What is it?
That is a question which has been raised with increasing frequency in the past two weeks by the people who walk along Nathan Road.

They refer to the "wall" which day by day is advancing up the middle of the street.
Eavesdropping in a milk bar
yesterday morning, a "China Mail" reporter heard this conversation:

"Well, what is it?"
"Dunno. Looks like a zebra."
"They say it's to keep the traffic in a single line."

"They could have done that with a boulevard one-third as high."

"But then people might jump over it."

"Well, they can still sleep on it. Better than some of these doorways, I'd say."

"No, they can't sleep on it. I hear the powers-that-be are going to plant hibiscus bushes and what-have-you on top."

"Then they'll have to have gardeners to tend it—and how many miles long is Nathan Road?"

"Expense is nothing. This is to keep the traffic in line."

"Already they have to have police to keep the people in line. There's one at every crossing, to herd you through that lit-
the wall."

"They haven't herded me yet!"
"Him. Certainly takes a lot of building material. If they'd leave the grass off and slide on a tin roof, it might help the housing situation at least."

"It might be better than my place."

"But then there'd be the key money."

(Sigh) "I suppose so."

Hong Kong next week will enjoy a rare treat—an exhibition of sculpture and painting by a man accomplished in both fields.

Mr. S. K. Chan, a graduate of famous American and European art schools, is holding a showing of his work at the Hotel Cecil on March 29, 30 and 31.

In a preview of his work at his Caine Road studio yesterday, Mr.
Chan displayed a number of outstanding pieces of sculpture, notable among which were life-size busts of the Honourable M.M.
Watson of Hong Kong and Mr.
Robert Butler, U.S. Ambassador to Australia.

Asked to pick his own favorite, Mr. Chan settled on a life-size bust of Mr. Lee Sao-lek, a Hong Kong businessman.
Besides being a realistic image of the subject, it is a study of the nature of the man himself.

Included in the exhibition will be a very fine bas-relief study in bronze of Mr. D.J. Sloss, Vice Chancellor of Hong Kong University, who is leaving the Colony shortly. Mr. Chan was commissioned by a group of Mr. Sloss' friends to do the work. It is to be presented to the University.

"I am first a sculptor, then a painter," Mr. Chan told the China Mail.

"Sculpturing takes so much time that I have little left for painting."

Nevertheless, his collection of oils and water-colours is impressive.

Most are richly coloured oil studies of flowers, usually chrysanthemums or peonies. However, the newer work include several paintings of the harbour by day and night.

Although landscapes lie outside his usual province, Mr. Chan evinces no mean accomplishment here.

Hong Kong first took notice of the sculptor-artist in 1938, when his first exhibition attracted considerable attention in circles qualified to judge. Since that time he has received numerous commissions to do work for prominent people here and elsewhere.

For Kwangtung-born Chan Sik-kwan this recognition has been the reward of years of study and struggle.

A graduate of the Boston
Museum of Fine Arts, he studied under Burdelle, noted pupil of Auguste Rodin, in Paris, and in the Florence Academy in Italy.
In 1931 he came to Canton to

Taft To Vote For Aid Cut

Washington, March 23.
Senator Robert Taft, Republican, Ohio, said today he will vote to cut up to $681,- 000,000 off the bill for the second year of the European Recovery Programme
when it reaches the Senate, probably on Thursday.

Pope Warns On Atheist Propaganda

Vatican City, March 23.
Pope Pius said today the enemies of the Catholic Church have unleashed against it a violent propaganda campaign of spoken and written words.

The Pontiff told 300 Lenten preachers that their work and all preparations for 1950 Holy Year must be intensified to oppose religious indifference and atheism.

The Pope said of propagandists,
"All arguments, even the most absurd ones, have been used by them with the aim of breaking up unity and co-operation of the Catholics and to shake their faith toward the Vener of Christ and towards Bishops and the clergy."

"The weapon they prefer to use is calumny, in such a way that obedience and harmony are exposed to the danger of being little by little tainted and destroyed."

"Tell your faithful not to let themselves be either seduced or misled. Tell them not to lend faith to false accusations of the enemy."—United Press.

Australia's Health Scheme Criticised

Canberra, March 23.

The Labour government has decided to force Australian doctors to enter its national medical scheme, which provides free drugs and half payment of doctors' fees for patients.

The powerful British Medical Association charges:
"The government clearly intends civil conscription of doctors. The government's latest step is a devious and cunning way of attempting to evade the provision of the Constitution that there shall be no civil conscription."

The BMA has successfully boycotted the scheme enacted nine months ago for free dispensation of medicines. It stated in a second scheme in December providing for government payment of half of doctors' bills, free dental care for young children and free eye treatment.

Mr. McKenna retorted that the suggestion of payment to hundreds of thousands of patients instead of relatively few doctors was a presumptuous prerequisite.

Colony's Fishing Community

There are 20,000 people engaged in fishing in Hong Kong, according to an official survey. Most of them are impoverished and without boats, says the 1948 annual report of the Government.

In 1938, there were 77,451 people in the fishing industry. The condition of the industry has not improved by its experiences during the Japanese war, added the report.

Even before the Occupation, the plentiful tendencies of the Japanese in local waters effectively dissuaded some fishermen from following their trade.

During the Occupation, the industry came almost to a standstill. At the end of the war, only a few of the remaining junks were seaworthy and most of the gear required overhauling.

Last year has been a good average year for the fishing industry but they say year since the end of the war.

Summer catches in November provided a record when more than 50,000 piculs of fish were landed by the fish markets.

Severe storms in July destroyed more than 70 vessels and rendered more than 240 persons homeless.

Relief supplies from the Social Welfare Office were distributed through the Fisheries Department, and new work was found for those put out of employment.

APPEAL IN SEAMAN CASE

Osbourne Rutledge Williams, an American Negro steward, formerly of the ss. Kyska, who was sentenced on February 26 by Mr. A.D. Schuler, at Kowloon to 18 months' hard labour for grievously wounding a fellow seaman, appealed against the severity of his sentence before the Chief Justice, Sir Leslie Gibson, at the Appeal Court yesterday.

His application for leave to appeal was dismissed.

Mr. A. A. Hooton was for the Crown, while defendant was not legally represented.

Williams told the Court that he hit the complainant in self-defence.

BEST COLLECTION OF CHINESE ANTIQUES

(By Professor CHENG TE-KUN)

The collection of Chinese antiques belonging to Mr. Henry Yeung, and which will be exhibited in the Feng Ping-shan Library this week-end, is in my opinion one of the best collections in Hong Kong.

During my few months' stay here, I have had the privilege of visiting no less than 30 collections, and I was impressed by the fact that collecting in this colony has been on a very high plane.

A banker, who has specialised in Sung Imperial vessels, has expensive pieces of Chun, Kuan, Ko, Ting and Lung-chuan wares and he believes that long association with these impressive specimens has actually given him a calm and dignified personality.

An ex-police commissioner takes an interest in paintings, and his collection of Sung, Yuan and Ming masters might easily fill the wall space of the Feng Ping-shan Library.

A Catholic Father has a collection of prehistoric material in the basement of his mission building; the richest I know on the South China Coast.

A dealer keeps dated pieces for reference and he has 20 dated celadons, not to mention those from other kilns. A millionaire's son spends his whole time collecting. His collection covers practically all the known branches of Chinese art objects, and he literally sleeps among them.

Most collectors prefer the Imperial wares of the Manchu Period because they are colourful in appearance, perfect in technical achievement, and enjoy a good local market.

Jade is another popular branch for collectors. Their pockets and drawers are full of these cute little carvings, which are believed to possess some supernatural power that will keep the bearer from the encroachment of any evil spirits. Mr. Yeung's collection falls into a category by itself, as it is indeed unique in the history of Chinese collections.

The enjoyment of art has been a privilege of the educated class in China which consists of the royal families, the bureaucrats, the scholars and the gentry. Never in the history of this land could a working man come to possess a collection of distinction. Mr. Yeung is the first from the rank and file of the labouring class to break through this barrier.

The collector started his life as an ordinary plumber in the Tai-koo Dockyards. He did well and is proud of his profession. He became interested in artistic antiques when he happened to see them on display in his superior's drawing room. Boldly he visited curio-stores and started on this long and expensive road of curio hunting.

For more than 30 years he has been in the game, and through a process of trial-and-error he gained his experience and became a regular collector. It is most unusual, that a landscape by the great master, Ma Yuan, originally owned by Chia Sui-tan, the notorious Sung Prime Minister, and later part of the Imperial Palace at Jehol, should find its way into the hands of a working man.

It is most inspiring to hear his own story and how his collection has survived the Japanese occupation. In those dark days, he preferred starving to disposing of his collection.

In the realm of art appreciation, Mr. Yeung has acquired the zeal and taste that characterises all the great collectors throughout the world.

There is no doubt that the Yeung collection is one of the best in Hong Kong. It is interesting, rich and important.

Judging from what he has shown me during my several visits to him, I am quite sure that his mirrors rival both in quantity and quality the rich collection of the Crown Prince of Sweden; his bronzes, the famous collection of Mr. David-Weill in Paris; his pottery, the well known collection of Sir Herbert Ingram at Cirencester and his paintings, the celebrated collection of Mrs. Moore in New York City.

The 100 odd specimens selected by the University Committee for the exhibition will give some idea of the richness of this collection.

The Yeung collection is outstanding not only for its richness, but also for its quality. His collecting was accompanied by serious reading on the subjects which has led him into the field of archaeology.

I was really inspired to find that his collection includes many burial objects unearthed in the Southern Provinces of Kwangtung, Hunan, Kiangsi, Chekiang and Fukien.

In the field of Chinese archaeology, we have been following the North China chronology, and for West China, one for Mongolia and another for Manchuria.

The time has come when we should have another series of sequences for South China. In this respect, the Yeung collection should provide a foundation for the formulation of this South China chronology.

Our British friends are familiar with the fact that the British Museum, the Victoria and Albert Museum, and the Fitzwilliam Museum, have been greatly enriched by their local collectors such as Eumorphopoulos, Oppenheim and Raphael.

Our American Museum people can tell you how the Buffalo Museum of Science was built on the Chaucer Hamlin collection, and the Minneapolis Art Gallery, the Pillsbury collection and how the world famous Winthrop collection of New York has recently gone into the hands of Fogg Museum at Harvard.

There is no reason why a Hong Kong Museum should not be benefitted by Hong Kong collectors.

AROUND THE HARBOUR

The Norwegian motorship Kvernass arrived here for the first time yesterday from Europe with more than 3,000 tons of general cargo.

Built at Greenock, Scotland, in January, 1948, she made her maiden trip to Australia.

Mr. K.S. Pedersen heads an all-Norwegian crew of 40.

The Chinese steamer Hai Hong arrived here yesterday on a military mission en route to Hainan.

She has among her cargo, machine-guns, ammunition and military stores. There are 12 soldiers travelling aboard.

Mr. A.L. Jammet, second engineer of the ss. Fentien, charged with being the master of a motor life boat which failed to exhibit regulation lights, was fined $70 by Mr. F.W.J. Ekeul at the Marine Court yesterday.

Defendant pleaded guilty.

Ng Kam aged 23, was charged at Kowloon yesterday with travelling on railway without paying his fare.

Defendant was absent from court and his bail of $25 was ordered to be forfeited.

Inspector J. Orem said defendant was arrested at the Kowloon Railway Station on Tuesday.

Stricter Control Of Airlines

The Transworld Airlines of the United States has urged the American Civil Aeronautics Board for stronger enforcement of regulations governing non-scheduled airlines, according to "Shipping Digest", an American weekly publication.

Local aviation circles told the "China Mail" yesterday that there are two American irregular air carriers serving Hong Kong at present.

They claimed that these two airlines quote tariffs considerably less than that legally allowed to BOAC, PAA, Air France, CNAC and PAL.

Referring to the subject, an article in "Shipping Digest" says:

"Urging stronger enforcement of regulations governing non-scheduled airlines by the American Civil Aeronautics Board, the Transworld Airlines cautioned that if these irregular carriers are permitted to come and go around the world as they please, the United States Government will be powerless to do anything that would prevent foreign irregular airlines from going to America and serving whatever points they choose, as often as they like."

"TWA emphasised the need for preserving the present landing rights agreement pattern, and finally stated before the CAB that the operation of non-scheduled carriers is not only endangering the whole structure on which Fifth Freedom rights are based so that we may lose everything, but it is creating a record of performances that seriously compromises the American Government position in future negotiations."

"TWA argued that irregular air carriers are doing nothing more than siphoning off business that the normal certified carriers would regularly handle. It has been proposed to the CAB that regulations be so amended to provide that any irregular air carrier wishing to enjoy exemptions may not operate between two points outside the United States now being served by a certificated American flag carrier."

ARMY TOP ROYAL NAVY I-O IN SOCCER GAME

Army 1—Royal Navy 0

In a cleanly contested First Division soccer game at Sookunpoo yesterday, Army beat Royal Navy by one goal to nil.

Tsui To Meet K.H. Ip Today

Due to inclement weather, yesterday's Semi-final of the Cricket Club Open Singles Tennis Championship was postponed to a later date.

One Club Handicap Singles and four Mixed Doubles fixtures were played off.

The great event in Hong Kong's tennis calendar falls today when Tsui Wan-pui, the Colony's Open Singles title-holder, defends his title against K.H. Ip, the 1947 Colony Champion and the present All-China National Champion.

A high standard of play should be expected in the match, which will be the most interesting of the day. The contest in the styles of the two players.

It is likely that Tsui will retain his title by hitting Ip's backhand with the same tactics as he used in the same match last year. He will probably try to draw Ip up to the mid-court with half-court drives and try to pass him from there.

Last year, great disappointment was felt when Ip's inability to return from Shanghai resulted in a walk-over being awarded to Tsui, and their meeting should give tennis enthusiasts a full quota of thrills and excitement.

Two Cricket Games Sunday

(By "MID ON")

Due to the fact that both the First and Second Division championships have been decided, coupled with that counter-attraction, the Extra Race Meeting, the cricket programme for this week-end is somewhat curtailed, though two very interesting games have been arranged for Sunday.

At Cox's Path on Sunday, commencing at 11 a.m., a strong combined team will take on Kowloon Cricket Club, and an excellent game should be seen, with the scoring on the high side. Dr. L. T. Rice, E.L., and G.N. Gosno, L.D. Kilbey and L.F. Stokes are all capable of at least half a century, and as for the KCC they have a few batsmen just as capable of running up such a score even against the best bowling.

Another all-day game on Sunday is that between Hong Kong Bank and Dowdells, this is to take place on the Club ground, Chater Road and here again good cricket should be seen.

This third game on Sunday is that between "Malinchela" and Bhoras in the Sunday Cricket League, run by Indian Recreation Club for their members. The former lost badly to Sindhis last Sunday and will have to win the rest of their matches if they hope to win the Malinchela Shield.

On Saturday Kowloon Cricket Club 2nd XI play their last League fixture for the season against Army at Sookunpoo. The latter, with the advantage of playing on their own wicket, should win but KCC have been known to upset the plans of stronger teams than the Army, and anything can happen.

Recreo will be at home to IRC 2nd XI in a friendly, but I hear the latter will not be at full strength owing to the fact that some of their players are otherwise engaged. At any rate an enjoyable game should be won with the odds slightly on the home team for a win.

Receiving The Governor's Shield

Two New Records Set In Inter-School Meet

For the first time King George V School won the Governor's Shield in the Inter-School Athletic Meet, held at Caroline Hill yesterday. St. Joseph's College won the Schools Association Shield for the Junior Division.

A high standard of running was displayed, resulting in the smashing of two records; the first by P. The other record was broken by Ho Hit-po of St. Joseph's College, in the 110 metres High Hurdles, his time being 18.1/10 secs. The previous record was 18.1/5 seconds.

Prior to the distribution of the prizes by Mrs. T. R. Rowall, Mr. L. G. Morgan of the Education Department, in a short speech, thanked the organisers for the grand show they had put up, and also Mr. C. M. McEwan for making the Athletic Meet a success.

He congratulated King George V School and St. Joseph's College for winning the respective Championships. He was glad to say that the pre-war standard had been restored, and in fact, two records have been broken.

A FEAST IN STORE FOR BRITISH SPORTS LOVERS

London, March 24.

Saturday, March 26, will long be remembered by thousands of British sports enthusiasts, for on this day is a feast of sport to suit nearly every taste.

Perhaps the foremost of the many outstanding events is the Grand National, the glamorous steeplechase to be run at Aintree, near Liverpool, before

HOW MUCH DID YOU DRINK?

Based on the estimated population of Hong Kong, an average of nearly half a gallon of beer was consumed by each person in the Colony during 1948.

A total of more than 1,000,000 gallons of European liquor was consumed in the year. This included 846,000 gallons of beer; 60,000 gallons of whisky; 36,000 gallons of brandy and 23,000 gallons of gin.

Aerated water consumed in the same period totalled 1,750,000 gallons and Chinese liquor amounted to 747,000 gallons.

Hong Kong's smokers consumed a total of 3,587,500,000 cigarettes during 1948. This included 1,400,000,000 imported cigarettes and 2,187,500,000 locally-made cigarettes.

Many of those who have watched the boat-race in the morning will fly up to Liverpool to see the Grand National in the afternoon.

Soccer fans have an embarrassment of riches with the F.A. Cup semi-finals, the Scottish Cup semi-finals, and the English Football League Cup semi-final replays.

In London Portsmouth meet Leicester and at Sheffield, Manchester United, the holders, meet Wolverhampton Wanderers for the honour of meeting in the F.A. Cup final at Wembley.

In Scotland two big cities, Clyde and Dundee at Edinburgh and the Rangers meet East Fife at Glasgow to see which team will have the right to contest the final at Hampden Park's famous stadium.

At Leeds, head-on, the English cricket will be seen a different type of "test" with the North meeting the South in the big annual Test match.

Across the Irish Sea, seven nations will run against each other in the International cross-country championship to be held on the well-known Baldoyle race course.

And across the Channel, in Paris, Wales and France fight out their annual international Rugby football match.

Two persons were injured in an armed robbery which occurred last night at Shing Yuen Ling village, Kowloon City.

Seven robbers, two of them armed with pistols, pretended to buy cigarettes from the Diamond Hillgrove's shop in that village. The shop-keeper was held up and robbed of $100 and two rings.

Some resistance was put up by the manager, his wife and six or seven folks in the shop. The robbers opened fire, injuring the manager and his wife.

about a quarter of a million spectators. More than 40 brave horses and their intrepid riders will set out to jump this gruelling four and half a miles course with its 30 colossal jumps. Only a handful will probably pass the finishing post.

On the River Thames, in the morning Oxford and Cambridge will row their annual boat race over four and a quarter miles. This is the best "free" show of the year, and dozens of thousands of citizens of Britain, and visitors from overseas, men and women and children of all ages, will line the banks of the river to watch the "Dark Blues" of Oxford do battle with the "Light Blues" of Cambridge.

Most of the onlookers will be wearing dark or light blue favours, depending on which university they fancy, even if they have not the remotest connection with either.

The choice of colours may depend on nothing more than a whim or perhaps, in the case of the women, the better looking crew.

"But du Maurier aren't an extravagance! A great luxury, I grant you, but that isn't quite the same thing."
